Numerous Local Amateurs and Experts Hear Every Word of "French Tiger's" Message and the Cheers That Greeted Him on His Arrival at the Pennsylvania Hotel, New York

Wireless Georges Clemenceau, champion American traveler temporarily and widely welcomed in all his trips around the U.S.A., got back into New York city early last evening after a speedy journey from Chicago, and he added to call up a lot of his American friends on the wireless from the Pennsylvania hotel. The call went out at 8:10 p. m. with every handy wireless in Lowell and vicinity listening in attentively when Georges began to talk. Joe Kelly, son composer and amateur wireless air-ride of two months' duration, but all tied up in the straits of the first time, caught the first New York air lanes free from disturbance.

FIRST OF MINE RIOT TRIALS

Five Men Face First Degree Murder Charge as Result of 'Herrin Massacre'

Counsel in Opening Says He Will Present Proof Defendants Not Implicated

MARION, Ill., Dec. 13.—(By the Associated Press) Testimony to show five men charged with murder in connection with the Herrin massacre had no part in the rioting but were elsewhere at the time, was promised by A. W. Kerr, chief counsel of the Illinois Mine Workers, in his opening statement to the jury in the first of the mine riot trials here today. The five men are charged with the death of Howard Hoffman, one of the 20 non-union men killed in the outbreak.

AWARDED $1000 FOR GAINING 215 POUNDS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 13.—For alleged increase in weight from 160 to 275 pounds, which she claimed was the result of a railroad accident, Mrs. Josephine Caldwell was awarded $1000 damages against the Chicago & Alton by a jury in the federal court. The basis of her suit was the allegation that an accident in which she was struck by a swift engine of the defendant railroad company December 1, 1920, had halted the proper functioning of the endocrine gland and caused her to gain 215 pounds in weight.

Greetings of School to Delegates Extended by Principal Clarence M. Weed

An important institute, under the auspices of the Lowell Teachers' Organization and embracing a comprehensive program of speechmaking and entertainment, was held in the State Normal school today, over 500 public school attaches being present at the morning and afternoon sessions. Miss Caroline A. Downey, president of the Teachers' Organization, called the meeting in order shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, following a general business session in the main hall of the school. After extending a welcome to the members and out-of-town guests, devotional exercises, consisting of the singing of the flag, and the singing of "America" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the assembly, which J. M. Kelley, superintendent of Lowell schools, presided over, the assembly paid a glowing tribute to the memory of Miss Ida Flint, a former member of the organization, who died recently after a long term as supervisor of sewing in the public schools of this city. Clarence M. Weed, principal of the normal school, was then called upon and extended the greetings of the school to the delegates.

The first speaker on the program, Mr. John J. Scully, superintendent of schools in Brockton, was next introduced by Miss Downey. Choosing as his subject, "Development of the Personality of the Teacher," the speaker gave a very interesting and instructive address along that line, emphasizing the necessity of courtesy, appropriate to the subject.

Brady Arraigned in Superior Criminal Court at Cambridge Today—Jury Gives Verdict Without Leaving Jury Box After Hearing Testimony of Expert Alienist Who Had Examined Defendant—Most Rapid Murder Trial in History of Middlesex County—Mrs. Brady Committed to Danvers Hospital for Insane by Order of Judge Hammond

(Special to The Sun)

RUM-LADEN SCHOONER ADRIFT OFF COAST

NANTUCKET, Dec. 13.—A rum-laden schooner, carrying 2000 cases of liquor, was adrift off this island today with only two men aboard, pursued by the coast guard cutter Annapolis. The schooner, of foreign registry and manned by a crew who speak English, was said to be the Silver Piece, which left Antwerp on Oct. 12. Cuba was the destination given.

SHARP WARNING TO TURKEY

Action Follows Refusal to Accede to Demand for National Armenian Home

Marquis Curzon, Head of British Delegation, Says Turks Block Settlement

LAUSANNE, Dec. 13 (By the Associated Press).—A refusal by Turkey at the Near East conference today to accede to the demand for a national home for the Armenians or international regulation of the rights of the minorities in Turkey brought a sharp warning to the August delegation from Marquis Curzon, head of the British delegation.

The British foreign secretary told the Turks that their persistent imposition of barriers to a satisfactory settlement of the minorities problem was having a bad effect on the conference and the entire world.

"When we leave Lausanne—and it may be we shall leave sooner than you think—when the world hears that the allied powers have been fighting the battles of the minorities and getting nothing but platitudes in return, the dict of not guilty. Judge Hammond instructed the jury to return such a verdict "by reason of insanity" and said that under the law Mrs. Brady would be committed to a state hospital until such a time as the governor and his council decided she would be a safe person to be at large.

The verdict was reached by the jury without leaving its box and was announced by Foreman John H. Willett. Judge Hammond then committed Mrs. Brady to the Danvers hospital for life.

The killing for which Mrs. Brady was arrested and upon which a grand jury returned a murder indictment, shocked the city of Lowell on the September morning it occurred.

As the story of the crime unfolded, it was learned that Mrs. Brady waited for her husband, who was a meter inspector for the Lowell water works, on the first floor corridor of city hall for more than an hour on the morning in question and after a few words, pulled a revolver and shot him. He lived for an hour or more at a hospital, but died as a result of the pistol wound thus inflicted.

After preliminary arraignment in the Lowell district court, Mrs. Brady was taken to the East Cambridge house of correction.

The question of her sanity arose and she was examined by Dr. Cady whose report was filed a week or so ago with the district attorney. Based upon this report were the proceedings of today's trial.

WILL NOT GIVE UP INCH OF SOIL

LAUSANNE, Dec. 13.—(By the Associated Press) Turkey refused at today's session of the Near East conference to assign any special part of Turkey as a national home for the Armenians. Ismet Pasha declared this would mean a new attempt to dismember Turkey.

Ismet Pasha was irreconcilable on other points concerning the treatment of minorities in Turkey. Besides declaring Turkey would not set aside an inch of Turkey soil for an Armenian national home, he said she would not accept the regulation of the rights of

Pres. Gompers Frankly Tells House Judiciary Committee of Action of Executive Committee of Federation in Authorizing Employment of Counsel to Assist Cong. Keller

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, frankly told the House Judiciary committee today that the executive committee of the federation had authorized the employment of counsel to assist Representative Keller, republican, Minnesota, in prosecuting impeachment proceedings against Attorney General Daugherty.

Notice was served on the committee today by Jackson H. Ralston, counsel for Representative Keller, that he would insist on his "rights" before the committee even if he had to carry his fight to the house of representatives.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—George W. Wickes, former attorney general, and Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, were the principal witnesses summoned to appear before the House Judiciary committee today in continuing hearings on the impeachment proceedings brought against Attorney General Daugherty by Representative Keller, republican, of Minnesota.

LOWELL MILLS ARE RECEIVING BIG CONSIGNMENTS OF COTTON

Figures Show Up Well With Busier Mill Runs of 1919—Considerable Egyptian Cotton Coming Here—November Shows Marked Increase in Amount of Cotton Moving Into New England

Cotton receipts in Lowell are growing in large volume.

Statistics for November shipments of the raw goods in bales to this city, indicate a movement equal to the average consumption of the local district, and the figures show up well compared with the busier mill runs of 1919.

The Sun is in receipt of figures giving the official receipts of cotton during the month of November in the five principal cotton consuming centers of New England. The total is 113,356 bales including all the cotton coming in by boat or rail at New Bedford, Fall River, Lowell, Lawrence and Manchester, but not including the movement by motor trucks.

It is said that trucking baled cotton to Lowell and other cities over the highways is steadily increasing, but direct means of knowing just how extensive this transportation service is at the present time, or is likely to be in the months to come.

ADDRESSED STRIKERS CONSOLIDATION OF WAR AND NAVY DEPTS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Consolidation of the war and navy departments into a department of national defense, designed to function under a cabinet member with assistants in charge of the army and navy respectively, has been definitely recommended to President Harding by Walter F. The president is giving serious consideration to this and other recommendations submitted by Mr. Brown, and may lay them before congress within a week or two, accompanied by a special message expressing the opinion of the administration on each of the changes suggested.

EVERY CAR EMPLOYED

Heaviest Local Traffic of the Season on Street Railway Lines

Local street railway traffic handlers had one of the busiest days of the present season yesterday. It was also one of the busiest days of the season for those four spare mobair plush-seaters and about two dozen extra service "specials" on the main rails during the "rush" hours.

Every available passenger car in the Lowell street railway division—31 in all—was run out and put up yesterday in the morning with new records tabulated in crowded hour contests to provide transportation space for eager commuters.

It was the first time this season that every serviceable passenger car, ancient and modern, was in the traffic running with spare cars working up to the limit.

And some of the medals for December 12 properly belong to the four sturdy old-time passenger cars with the now somewhat unfashionable seats all joggled up in soft red plush like that excellent quality with new records tabulated in crowded hour contests to provide transportation space for eager commuters.

had to be provided for, and the Eastern division executive, commanded by Whelan, provided ample accommodations before and after the big event at the new Memorial Auditorium. Instructions went forward early to have enough cars lined up in front of the memorial to handle everybody after the concert finale, and this assignment was also carried out without a hitch or delay of consequence.

Conservatively speaking, it was a memorable night in early winter street car patronage handling on the part of the McCormick-Whelan division executives.

Railway executives are not very communicative when it comes to giving out detailed figures officially covering current local transportation patronage, but unofficial reports from good sources of information indicate to those well acquainted with local street car riding that the McCormick-Whelan division lines are right now doing about the biggest business of the season.

HELD CHRISTMAS SALE

There were numerous tables laden with all sorts of good things and those in charge reported a thriving business. At 6 o'clock supper was served to 150 people. Mrs. Arthur T. Stafford was chairman of the general committee on arrangements, while the sales tables were under the direction of Mrs. Gardner Macartney and Mrs. William P. Hovey. Mrs. John C. Meloon had charge of the supper and she was assisted by Mrs. M. D. Abbott, Mrs. Louis Kleski, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Arthur Murkland, Mrs. Marshall Forrest, Mrs. Noses Stanley, Mrs. Arthur Teeson, Mrs. Frances B. McNamara, Mrs. Eleanor B. SUIT AGAINST BANK ON STONES HURLED AT BALL AT SUPERIOR COURT GAME IN MEXICO

An action of contract in the sum of $2000 brought by Andrew Jones against the B. F. Butler Co-operative bank of this city went to trial this noon at the jury waived session of the superior court, Justice Cox presiding.

In this case the plaintiff claims that on May 30, 1920, the bank entered into a contract with him to advance him money for the purchase of materials for the erection of a dwelling house, but when the building was partly erected the bank refused to carry out its end of the contract, thereby causing him great damage. The defendant in its answer denies each and every allegation contained in the plaintiff's declaration.

The case of George W. Morrison at this city vs. the B. F. Butler Co-operative bank, an action of contract by which the plaintiff seeks to recover a commission for the sale of an Auburn automobile to a resident of this city, which went to trial yesterday noon, was brought to a close and given to the jury shortly before the noon hour today.

Bond of the Boston Normal school will speak on the topic "Modern Trends in Secondary Education."

JAMES F. Hennessey FOR Councilor-at-Large

To my fellow Citizens:—
May I ask your favorable support of my candidacy for the following reasons:—

Every effort of mine will be to render acceptable public service.

I will apply the same degree of common sense in the solution of public problems as I have in private business.

While I have not held public office in the past, that in itself is perhaps a good reason why you should elect me.

I am not a candidate for any particular reason or motive, except that I think it the duty of a citizen to be willing to render some degree of public service at some time or other in his life.

IF YOU WANT ME TO GO TO CITY HALL AND LOOK AFTER YOUR INTERESTS IN A BROAD, IMPARTIAL AND PAINSTAKING MANNER, I AM AT YOUR SERVICE.

That there is need of much constructive work, and greater frankness in the conduct of public affairs, is unquestioned. To win your approval of public service along such lines will be my earnest endeavor.

IN MEMORIAM

To those who know George B. Feeney and appreciated the fidelity to ideals and thrift which marked his life, his tragic death on Saturday last came as an irreparable loss and a distinct shock. As a craftsman in his profession of mechanics he had advanced rapidly by his unflinching and unceasing application, to a position of expertness that compared most favorably with the achievements of others in his craft.

Born in County Derry, Ireland, in 1876, he came to Lowell with his mother when he was a young lad. He attended the Coburn school, but was not privileged to enjoy a higher education. His vocation was work and he turned to it manfully. The Big Shop, near the Saco-Loell, numbered him, among its hundreds of other Lowell boys, among its faithful workmen. It was there he served his apprenticeship and laid the foundations of a trade in which he was destined to succeed, so well.

Death came to him while he labored alone his highway, a plain, God-fearing man, deeply conscious of the niche in the human scale he had been called upon to fill.

One truthfully may say of George B. Feeney: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Signed: MICHAEL J. FEENEY.

Evans' All-Pacific Honor Roll

By BILLY EVANS

California has again in a most decisive manner, proved its superiority in Pacific coast football.

That being the case it is only natural that the critics of that section should lean to Andy Smith's eleven in making their selections for an all-star team.

In no game during the season was California pressed, unless it was the contest with the University of Southern California, which was won 12 to 0.

Southern California, on comparative scores, is certainly entitled to second place in ranking the Pacific coast elevens. It was fitting that Southern California should be selected to meet Penn State in the New Year's game, California having previously declined the honor.

While Oregon finished with a clean slate it played no California team. Oregon played Washington to a 3 to 1 tie. California beat Washington 45 to 7.

Those scores make the 12 to 0 defeat which Southern California sustained in the California game a convincing argument in favor of Southern California's right to second place. Washington beat Washington State 16 to 13. Oregon beat the same team 13 to 0, while Southern California had no trouble winning from Washington State 41 to 3. Another argument for Southern California.

With California having a decided edge, and Southern California a good second, based on comparative scores, it is no great surprise that California players should draw a decided preference in the selection of first and second teams from the Pacific coast talent.

One critic in the state of Washington went so far as to place the entire California team on his first team. He simply wrote "California as is" for his premier coast eleven.

Brick Muller and Duke Morrison of California drew the biggest vote. Morrison was the unanimous choice of the coast critics for fullback. Nesbit, also hailing from California, was a unanimous choice on the second team for the fullback position.

Nichols of California and Ziel of Washington led the halfbacks by a wide margin. Erb went big at quarter. The line positions were more hotly contested. There was a difference of only one first choice vote between the three centers selected as the best.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Woman Claims Liquor Taken by Police—Defendant in Case Discharged

A liquor case of unusual interest was tried in district court this morning with Judge Enright on the bench. It was one that was continued from yesterday and resulted in having Louis Lamprinakos found not guilty of illegal keeping. The case had unique peculiar angles in it and became involved yesterday that it was held in the midst of the trial and continued until this morning's session. This story was taken when Attorney Charles Donahue, who appeared for the defendant, offered to produce a person who claimed ownership of contraband liquor that the defendant was charged with owning.

This morning a woman appeared and claimed ownership to the liquor which amounted to one-half gallon of alcohol. She said that she was using the stuff for a rub, according to the doctor's orders. The court said that he didn't think the woman truthful in some of her statements, but that he would have to make his finding on the weight of evidence offered.

It appears that a short while ago liquor officers conducted a raid in a block owned by the defendant, who owns a store on the first floor and who lives over the store in a closet off of one of the tenements a quantity of beer and the alcohol was found. Lamprinakos was arrested on a charge of illegal keeping. The analysis of the beer revealed the fact that it was within the law and it was therefore ruled out of the case.

Atty. Donahue contended that the government had failed to properly link up the defendant with the stuff found in the closet as there was nothing to show that he was the owner of it. It was also brought out that the officers did not contradict the woman's story.

In passing judgment on the case the court said that he had letters from people complaining of the defendant's place. He said that the defendant had better go straight and that if he was brought before him and found guilty he would receive a stiff fine.

Finnon Dupre pleaded guilty to illegal keeping and to maintaining a liquor nuisance. He was fined $100 on the first complaint and given a three months' sentence to the house of correction in addition to a $50 fine on the second complaint. The second sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for one year.

Mannuel Reis was fined $30 for operating an auto on December 1 after his license had been revoked. He was placed in charge of the probation officer. The case came up yesterday but was continued until today.

Alex Oles of Tewksbury was found guilty of illegal keeping and in addition to a fine of $100 being imposed he was ordered to serve 30 months in the house of correction. He appealed the sentence. Although he was a first offender the recommendation of the police was such as to bring about the direct sentence.

Institute at Normal School

The Normal School is now in session and the first day of the institute was held yesterday. The institute is a series of lectures and discussions on various subjects of interest to the teachers of the district. The first lecture was given by Mr. J. H. Smith, who spoke on "The Teacher's Role in the Classroom." He emphasized the importance of the teacher as a guide and a friend, and the need for a democratic approach to education.

Getting Best Results
"A teacher can be the greatest educator in the world if she chooses. She can say to a pupil 'do this, because I tell you to do it,' and of course the thing will be done. But a teacher who takes her pupils into her confidence, who becomes democratic, that teacher will get better results in the end. Don't try to be the whole show, but make the recitation a socialized act."

"Be appreciative. It is a true saying that people never read the inscription on their own tombstone. When someone does something well, tell him so, for if the child does something better today than he did yesterday, and you tell him so, he will try hard to do even better tomorrow. Say positive, not negative things. Positive things tend toward development and that's what we are looking for."

"And another thing, be enthusiastic; don't be a dead one. Make the pupil feel that you are interested in his welfare. Cultivate a pleasing voice and you will never be known to fail in the matter of discipline. A quiet, full, rounded voice makes only trouble in the classroom. Make a pleasant, full, rounded and well-modulated. Have a smiling face. It brings sunshine into life." Mr. Scully concluded his talk with the recitation of a well-chosen poem, entitled "The Confusion on the Sunshine Special."

Division of Assembly
At this juncture, the assembly was divided into two sections, the high school section, of which Mr. Harris was chairman, and the elementary school section, in charge of Miss Downey, remaining in the main hall. Bernard M. Sheridan, superintendent of schools, was the speaker before the latter gathering, and Charles T. McFarlane, professor of geography, Teachers' college, Columbia university, before the former.

Supt. Sheridan spoke on "English in the Elementary Schools," saying that the study may be compared to life and the ocean. It is so short and so wide that it might all be lost in a moment. "What is English?" he said. "We start out for nowhere in September and get there late in June, and in the meantime we have been almost entirely out of sight of land. Teaching English to the children is today tremendously difficult, and as yet the schools have not produced respectable results. Children, for the most part, speak the kind of English they hear and the natural difficulties with the language have been increased by the prevailing indifference of older people to the quality of speech used. The foreign element has also served to increase the difficulty and the schools have an enormous task ahead of them to eradicate the stiltedness of the English language."

"Many persons still hold to the superstitious belief that if boys and girls are taught grammar, they can read and write English correctly, and well, I do not believe this. It is the neglect of oral English that causes so many failures, for it is infinitely more important to teach the pupil to talk rather than to write well. The average run of children can't talk in their ordinary class-room because the teacher won't let him talk. The teachers do it all. It seems, and fail to give the pupil a motive to talk. Let the child know that he is exchanging ideas and judgment in the class-room and not merely conversing with the teacher."

A good socialized recitation is the strongest factor operating today in the schools and should be encouraged. First, teach the pupil to write by teaching him to talk. That order seems to have been reversed in our schools of the present day, and for this I blame, not the teacher but the textbooks in use at present."

In an adjoining lecture hall, Mr. McFarlane addressed the high school group on "Geography in the High School," and dealt with physical, economical and regional geography. He gave a brief description of a recent trip to Europe and told of a visit to Vienna, where, he said, 100,000 people have been fed through the American Red Cross in recent times. He also outlined the British Empire and its possessions and dwell upon England's relations with India and other territorial possessions. He concluded by saying that "England is doing more in the line of civilization than any other country in the world today."

Other speakers at the late morning session were Ira A. Plummer, headmaster of the Huntington school, Boston; John C. Gray, formerly superintendent of schools, Chicago; Mrs. M. A. and Mrs. Grace B. Beaumont, of Amherst, Mass.

This afternoon's schedule was as follows:

Statistics show, mill men say, that the movement of raw cotton to this section is going along at a rate equal to the normal consumption of the mills operating at this time. The receipts of cotton since the beginning of the present cotton season are still fully a quarter of a million bales short of the normal mill consumption for the corresponding period, nevertheless, due to the extremely light receipts during August, September and October, when the mills were consuming each month more cotton than was arriving from the south and from other cotton-growing sections.

The shortage early in the season, of course, was made up by purchases of cotton stored in many cities like New York, where several Lowell textile interests soon discovered it and bought it up promptly to keep the reserve supply here adequate for mill resumption work.

The month of November saw a sharp increase in the amount of cotton moving into New England. The principal cotton consuming centres report receipts of approximately twice the previous month's total, though the November figures this year fall below the corresponding month of last year in practically every instance.

There was a marked increase in the volume of cotton moving via the water route from the south. The percentage of arrivals by boat both during November and October was much larger than usual.

Reports from the various New England cotton manufacturing centres with regard to the amount of cotton moving by trucks indicate an unusually large volume of cotton now being trucked over the road by auto, many such shipments being of the emergency character to relieve sometimes serious shortages owing to the very small amount of cotton actually held in storage by the mills in all the leading cotton cities and the rapid exhaustion of their reserve stocks on hand because of renewed extensive operations and full runs in many big plants.

CLEMENCEAU SAILS FOR HIS HOME TODAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Satisfied that he has accomplished his mission in America, Georges Clemenceau sails for home today, on the French liner Paris. He was up early as usual, ready to find a place on the steamer's deck and wave farewell to the country he wishes to join with France in working out Europe's after-the-war problems.

Last night he delivered his final address in America—the briefest of all his American speeches—at a dinner arranged by the committee for devastated France. He prefaced his remarks by the statement: "Why should I speak? I am tired I am old and I want very much to go to bed."

He spoke only 15 minutes, repeating his plea for American co-operation. "You think you are not quite at the end of your duty. It is for you to decide," he said.

Clemenceau found a surprise aboard the Paris where he spent the night—35 live terrapins, the gift of Bernard M. Baruch. He expressed a fondness for turtles some time ago and Mr. Baruch sent to his South Carolina estate for them.

The Paris will sail at 11 a. m.

Reports on the work of the preceding year will be presented and the formation of plans and policies for the coming year will be considered. Foremost among the subjects which will be discussed, it is said, are: international relations and co-operation; the progress of the light for peace; the 15th anniversary of the world war; the prohibition on drink; what is the verdict? the work of the churches in the army and navy; interpreting the gospel to the modern man and evangelism as a primary business of the church.

WATER SITUATION CAUSES ALARM

BIDDEFORD, Me., Dec. 13.—Manufacturers in the western part of the state are regarding the low water situation in rivers and other sources of power with no little apprehension. The rainfall during the fall was far less than usual with the result that small streams, bays and sources of supply are low.

The plants of the Pepperell Manufacturing company, in this city and the York Manufacturing company, in Sweden, have reduced the number of working hours in certain departments because of the lack of power.

FRANCE RETURNS RIGHT TO USE FREE HAND

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(By the Associated Press) Premier Poincare, at the resumption of the parliamentary debate on the French foreign policy, will announce that the government retains the right to use a free hand in settling the German debt. However, he will not specify what this security will be, nor will he give a detailed account of his plans.

The premier made this clear to interviewers last night, saying that he would speak either spontaneously or in reply to interpellations on the French postponement of the occupation of the Ruhr, of which Leon Dandot and others have given notice.

TO DIRECT ORCHESTRA IN LONDON AND PARIS

The many friends of Walter B. O'Neill of North Chelmsford will be glad to learn of his success in obtaining a two years' contract directing an orchestra in London and Paris. About four years ago, this young pianist, who lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George P. O'Neill, was very popular among local organizations and his services were in great demand.

He enlisted in the navy at the outbreak of the war and since that time had been in this city only a few times. After the war he was appointed leader of an orchestra in the New Willard hotel in Washington, D. C. During of Washington he came to Boston and for

IS NOT A NEW REMEDY, HAVING BEEN IN USE FOR 20 YEARS

The secret of its remarkable success lies in the fact that it is composed of medicinal agents, all of vegetable origin, which have never before been combined in one remedy. It is this combination of soothing, healing, antiseptic, tissue building and blood warming properties that makes it so effective as a throat and lung medicine. It does the work when all other remedies fail.

It will break up a cold in the head, throat or lungs. Its timely use prevents pneumonia and consumption. Contains no dope.

WORLD-WIDE CALL RADIO SYSTEM

Plans for uniting the call systems of the world are being discussed by amateur organizations of the chief countries.

This movement is the result of an effort to clear up the existing confusion when one amateur calls another. At present, four different interpretations may be placed on a call between amateurs in America.

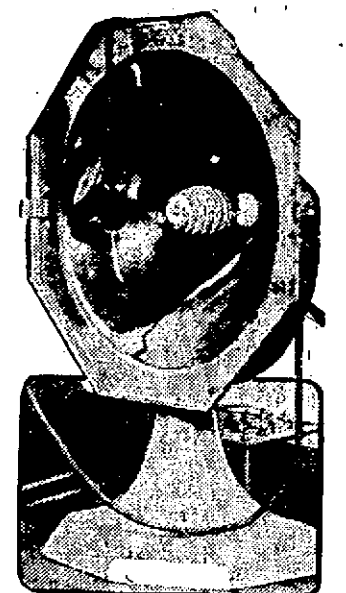

With the advent of trans-Atlantic amateur communication this confusion is looked upon with great concern. For this reason, British, French and American amateur societies have been trying to devise a call system that would include amateurs of all countries with no chance of misinterpretation. Many plans have been offered.

Suggested System
One, out of which the final system may come, is suggested by the French amateur society and elaborated by the officials of the American Radio Relay League. This is the plan by which an amateur in one country calling one in another country would repeat the letters "de" as they are used now between his call and that of the amateur called, with the initial of his country and that of the other country concerned.

For example, FAYR in the United States is calling SDY in France. He would sign his call: "SDY de FAYR." Thus only one correct interpretation could be placed on this call and no confusion would result. At the same time, every amateur would retain his present call, necessitating no expense or trouble in changing the system.

All that would be needed, say officials of the A.R.R.L., would be consent of the various governments to the change, as the use of the "de" between calls is prescribed by international law.

HEATER BECOMES LOUD SPEAKER

Why buy a loud speaker? Your electric heater will do. An amateur has his up as shown above and was surprised by the results. Just place the earphone opposite the center and tune in.

HEARD AT 6000 MILES
Broadcasting station KDKA, at East Pittsburgh, Pa., has a record in long distance at which others must shoot. Its concert was heard recently by a ship off the coast of Peru, some 6000 miles southwest of the transmitting station.

EXPLAIN FREAK TERMS
British amateurs who have succeeded in sending in on American sets have been puzzled by some of the terms used in the transmission. The American Radio Relay League, through its official organ, QST, explains these terms as follows:
"73—This is a signal taken into radio from the American Morse code, and means 'best regards'."
"DX—'Distance,' more exactly, long distance."
"OM—'Old Man,' the common amateur term of fellowship. Feminine is 'OW'."
"FB—'Fine business!' meaning 'hat's fine news, that's great.'"
"ND—'Nothing Doing,' commonly used in testing, to mean that communication is too poor to make further attempt justified."
"On the air"—Listening in.
"Working brass"—Transmitting.
"CUL—See you later."

SHIP HAS DOUBLE SET
Safely of the 4100 passengers and 1000 members of its crew depends on the double transmitting set on the trans-Atlantic liner Majestic. The continuous wave set has a range of 2000 miles, while the spark set can reach out 300 miles.

AMATEURS RECOGNIZED
France for the first time has officially recognized amateurs as such. That is in the proposed law for the control of "amateur" stations and for a tax levy on receiving and transmitting stations.

GIRLS' CITY CLUB
Each young lady of the "Kathleen" cast is permitted to invite a gentleman guest and each gentleman, a lady, for the dancing party which will be held this evening at the Girls' City Club. All the workers for the play and the club members are accorded the same privilege. The dancing committee in charge of Miss Mae Holloway, has featured the large club hall with the Kathleen colors. Miss Mary Martin and her entertainment committee promise a pleasant surprise, and little Miss Dorothy Sheeley, a pupil of Miss Dorothy Conley, will delight with an exhibition dance. This is as much of the program as will be disclosed before the event, but a delightful evening is expected.

LOWELL ART ASSOCIATION
The Lowell Art Association will open its session tonight at the Whistler house in Worthen street with an exhibition of paintings by George L. Noyes and a lecture by Arthur C. McGilliff, Jr., of All Souls' church, who will give an illustrated talk on his experiences in Greece as a member of the American school. As is customary on opening nights, the hospitalities of the association will be extended to members and their guests and thereafter the Noyes exhibition will be open to the public daily without cost.

WHEN KIDNEYS HURT TAKE GLASS OF SALTS
Eat Less Meat if You Feel Back-achy or Have Bladder Trouble

Too much meat may form uric acid, which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Big meat eaters can flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like they relieve the bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poisons, else they may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad they have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, (full of sediment); the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.
To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush out the body's uric waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.—Adv.

ALLIES DRIFTING APART

The allied premiers have found it impossible to change President Poincaré of France on the matter of German reparations. France stands upon the terms of the Versailles treaty and insists that they be carried out in spite of the German protest and appeal on the ground of their alleged impossibility. It is generally recognized that under the present demoralized state of the German currency, Germany is not in a condition to pay the amount of reparations demanded at the present time. She requires a moratorium and this the majority of the allied premiers deem to be a necessity, even if the amount of reparations were reduced.

The conference of premiers in London was held with a view to modifying the terms and conditions upon which Germany shall meet the demands of France. The British premier went so far as to offer to cancel the French obligations to Britain if France would reduce the amount of reparations demanded from Germany and agree to more lenient terms of payment. On these points President Poincaré let the other premiers understand that the attitude of France was unchanged, that she stood on the terms of the treaty and would insist upon the occupation of German territory if there was any lapse of payment. The other powers are much opposed to the application of force and as a result, although without much hope of obtaining their object, they agreed to postpone the conference until January. There is very little ground to hope that they can persuade France to modify the terms of her demands upon Germany. France may be excused for her determination to carry out the provisions of the treaty in view of what she suffered at the hands of Germany during the war.

There is imminent danger at the present time, that there will be a general disagreement among the allied powers that will cause them to abandon their common interest and form new alignments perhaps to include some of the central powers. This would only be laying the foundation of another war that might wipe out what remains of European civilization. If the United States can avert such a dangerous possibility, it would serve the cause of humanity to do so with all possible haste.

GOOD GOVERNMENT

Occasionally when newspapers have to criticize some phases of city government, it might seem that they reflect upon our city. Such is not the case, however. Lowell is a great industrial city, and if her people show the proper spirit of enterprise, her progress should be continuous. Located at the confluence of the Merrimack and the Concord, she has some of the finest scenery in New England and splendid facilities for utilizing the water power of both rivers for manufacturing purposes. Formerly devoted mainly to the textile industry, Lowell within the past few years has become a city of diversified industries. The shoe industry has grown rapidly here during the past few years and there are still many splendid manufacturing sites here. The local machine shops send their products to China, Japan, South America and many other countries. A city of 112,000 people, Lowell is still progressing and will soon have to annex suburban territory in order to afford space for healthy expansion. Already this need is felt. The increase in the number of automobiles has enabled the people to move farther from the business center and yet keep in touch with all the activities of the city. With good government and encouragement to local enterprise, Lowell will continue to grow and prosper; but turbulent and wasteful government will soon injure any city.

Good government on the other hand invites new industries, encourages enterprise and is one of the best guarantees of continued prosperity. The voters of this city should remember this next Tuesday when selecting a new government for next year.

THE WOMEN'S VOTE

At the coming municipal election, much will depend upon the interest taken by the women and whether they will come out in full numbers to vote. The women who work in the factories and workshops have a right to use their influence in favor of good government just as well as the men. If there is waste and extravagance at city hall, it will soon be felt by the mill operatives in increased rents. The election commission has registered 33,303 voters of both sexes; but has not kept a record of how many of these are women, for the reason that there is no distinction made between the sexes. It is quite probable, however, that from 12,000 to 14,000 women are registered. It is, therefore, of the highest importance that they should take an active part in the election and not leave it entirely to the men.

There are important issues involved. The women can size up the candidates perhaps better than most of the men. It is desirable that they shall use their influence for the selection of the best candidates. Above all, however, it is important that they shall get to the polls to vote on election day. The polls at the regular election, unlike the primaries, will open at 8 o'clock in the morning and close at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be necessary to make definite arrangements to get out inside those hours.

IRELAND

Ireland as divided between the Dublin and Belfast parliaments, is under self-government. The north has its local parliament with a governor-general, a well known scion of the British aristocracy, namely, the Duke of Abercorn. He is one of the old landlord class, who has still vast holdings in Ireland, although he had to sell out a large portion of his estate to the tenants.

The southern, or Dublin parliament, is known as that of the Irish Free State. It has a greater degree of independence than the northern parliament and represents a territory and population perhaps four times as great. It will be regarded as the parliament of Ireland. Already it is seeking recognition by the United States and France on the same national basis as Canada. Unfortunately it is beset with attacks by the remnant of the republican supporters who are carrying on a destructive form of guerrilla warfare, resorting to murder, robbery and the destruction of property, including roads and bridges, by the use of the torch and explosives. Already the destruction of property from this warfare is incalculable and unless the trouble is soon checked, Ireland will be hopelessly ruined. It is now loaded with damage claims much greater than it would have to meet in taxation if it had been in the thick of the fight during the great war in Europe.

AUTO PARKING SPACE

The line is at hand when some plan must be devised to find parking places for autos in the down town district. Some have suggested that we build over the canal as might be done below the bridge on East Merrimack street for example.

That would be an expensive proposition and would be subject to the approval of the Locks and Canal company. This, however, would afford but slight relief. It would serve mainly for the autos that come to the Auditorium on the occasion of any large attraction. How the problem of finding parking space is to be solved, nobody has yet offered a practical suggestion. It may be by providing a high building with many floors suitable for the temporary care of autos, or it may be the clearance of some congested district and the construction of a garage of an area greater than any yet proposed. Some day, not so far in the future, as some might suppose, we shall have subways in Lowell same as in Boston, but on a smaller scale. Then the congestion of the streets will be relieved.

SAFE SKATING

This is the time when parents should caution their children of the danger of skating on the rivers and canals. We saw some of the youngsters skating above Aiken street bridge Sunday afternoon and felt that many of them ventured very close to danger spots where the ice was thin. If any skater should be drowned on the river while Shedd park is unflooded, the park department might come in for part of the blame. The water department, we believe, should not hesitate to provide the water necessary to flood Shedd park or any other place that can be conveniently flooded to afford the youngsters a safe skating field. But there should be no waste. It costs money to fill the reservoir with pure water. It is to be regretted that the city cannot use river water for flooding the parks; but that would call for a separate system of mains.

Will H. Hays has gone to California to superintend the filming of the industrial community at Los Angeles. After getting the views of a vast number of people and of newspapers, he has come to the conclusion that in the movies emphasis should be placed upon encouragement of the good rather than the suppression of evil so that the motion picture may become one of the chief assets of the community for education and social betterment. That is a good platform on which to build the popularity of the movies.

Those who have been connected with the schools in any capacity for the last twenty-five years will regret the death of Miss Ida J. Flint, supervisor of sewing. Miss Flint was a very faithful and efficient teacher and one who had won the respect and esteem of all with whom she came in contact. The children who received instructions in the art of sewing during her long term of service, will especially regret her demise.

The chamber of commerce is to be congratulated upon securing General Pershing to speak at its banquet on Thursday evening. It is an honor for Lowell to have the distinguished guest come here and especially to have him assist in dedicating the new quarters of the Legion.

The Rotary club has done a very beneficial thing in making such a liberal distribution to the orphanages and children's homes of the city. We cannot conceive of any better purpose for which the money could be spent.

The death of John Wannamaker removes a great merchant prince from the activities of life. His achievements will stand as an inspiration and a guide to business men everywhere.

Set in Their Ways
"It should not be difficult for mothers to persuade girls not to wear 'maple' clothes." "It isn't," replied Miss Cayenne. "But it's rather hard for girls to persuade some of the mothers to quit dressing in that manner."—Washington Star.

A Thought
There is no victory possible without humility and magnanimity, and no magnanimity or humility possible without an ideal; and there is not one who has not the ideal in his own heart to put aside all evil habits and to live a brave, simple, truthful life.—Thomas Hughes.

Her First Taxi Ride
It was the dear old lady's first ride in a taxi and she watched with growing alarm the driver continually putting his hand outside the car as a signal to the following traffic. At last she became exasperated. "Young man," she said, "you look after your own car and watch where you are going; I'll tell you when it starts raining!"

Successful Pirate
The passengers of the smoking car chatted on merrily. Family reproaching ambition. "Yes, gentlemen," said one, "real ambition starts in childhood. And it is obeying its impulse we not only attain to it, but actually we go far beyond it. Yes, our ambition is gratified beyond our wildest dreams. Look at me, in my heyday I was anxious to become a pirate and actually I am gazed proudly round the car—'today I run a successful hotel!'"

The Joke Knew
The view of a small town was returning home one Sunday evening when he came upon two young boys having a quarrel. They were fighting fiercely and he stepped forward to shout abusively at each other, using very bad language. Touching the smaller of the two boys on the shoulder, he said, "What's the matter, you fellows? Whatever would your mother say if she heard you using such wicked words?" "Sneet," said the smaller boy, "he told me to sneet you!" "Rubbish!" answered the victor. "You know she would not be pleased!" "I think she would be, sir," said the victor.

The Killing Price
The late Dennis Spencer was sitting at his desk one day when a Chinaman entered. "You asked me to do for you?" "Yes, John, what can I do for you?" "You saw my coat, didn't you?" "Yes, it was in the days of the low cost of living, so Spencer said, "O, about $500 for a decent one, a person would have to be a murderer." "If I brought you a coat like that," said the Chinaman, and went out, shaking his head over the victor. Spencer for got him until about two months later, when the Chinaman entered, and plunking down $500 on the desk, said casually: "Ah, light. I killed him!"

December
They're coming the days of winter. Impotent, sullen days. When the skies droop low and the sea winds blow. And the fog is a drifting maze.

They're coming, the days of winter—With freight in the room. While quaint book-shelves on their crowded shelves Beckon you from their gloom.

In the street the chill of December. On a blurred gray afternoon; In the house the crackle of history logs.

Two friends—and the heart of June! And yet in the street how dreary, How it rains, and the pavements gleam. Or it snows, and then, for an elfin hour The town is a fairy's dream!

Though Beauty be April's Lady She visits Old Winter, too. Her delicate Kiss slides his lips Yet warms him through and through!

She turns gray bloom to splendor, With glitter of frost and gleam of snow. She touches trees with her fingertips And the bare bleak branches blow.

With the bloom of the trees of heaven, Catching the light of the sun, Ah, never in summer have you seen Such flickery splendors spun!

A NEW FLAG
(New York Times)
Gilbert Chesterton said some years ago in his characteristic way that the purest German blood, or the purest Norman blood, or even the purest blood of the passionate Scotch Gaelic had not been "so attractive as a nation without a flag." The nation to which he referred was Ireland and he was referring to Ireland yesterday when her banner among the flags of the nations, the flag of the Gaelic, was hoisted.

It was in this same essay on a flagless nation that Chesterton spoke of Mr. Timothy Healy, "the most serious intellect in the present house of commons," as assuming up nationality "to perfection" by calling it "a machine for which people will die." In reply to Lord Hugh Cecil in the house one day, Healy said: "Not one, not even the noble Lord would die for the meridian of Greenwich." But that was because, as Chesterton explained, Greenwich did not "cohere" in a spiritual manner as, for example, Athens and Sparta cohered and as Ireland has cohered as American lovers of that people of "true and strange glory" who still see the fairies upon the earth, who nominate poets and senators and who are a model nation "in the matter of violence," will hope that, free of pressure from without and in spite of dissension within, they will continue to erect under a flag that combines with white the two colors that melt into each other in the bow of promise.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Court Officer Michael Dowd surely has a busy time handling the crowds in the district court these days. As the number of law offenders increases so do the number of spectators increase, for generally each one of the "prisoners" has a friend or relative who comes to "see him through." The poor layout of the building makes the handling of a crowd an extremely difficult one. Mr. Dowd, however, seems to have things right in his control after the crowds that frequent the court, insisting that quiet and order prevail so that the work of the court will not be interrupted. Mr. Dowd may appear to be a bit strict while on duty in the court room, but when he is met outside he is much different. He is a pleasant, clean, humorous and has a keen sense of humor. He evidently believes that business is business, pleasure is pleasure and that each has its proper place, but they should not be mixed. I have heard more than one visiting lawyer comment upon his efficient manner in doing his work.

I have been asked many times relative to the condition of Dennis A. Murphy, former commissioner of streets, whose term in office was cut short by the adoption of the charter under which we are now operating. I am told that Mr. Murphy is making a wonderful fight against the difficulty that has attacked him. Life grant courage, which carried him through many a battle, will stand him in good stead. It is hoped by all his friends that he will be victorious in his battle. It will be recalled by most people that Mr. Murphy was one of the four commissioners when the commission form of government was superseded. The other members were James E. Donnelly, George E. Marchand and John F. Salmon. When the new charter came into effect, Mr. Murphy was elected to office with their terms cut short, but all accepted the decision of the voters without a murmur of any kind. The terms of Commissioners Donnelly and Salmon automatically expired.

Commander Harry E. O'Sullivan of the local chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and his five companions who attended the state convention held in Worcester recently, surely deserve to be complimented upon their success in obtaining the next state convention for Lowell. The organization in Lowell next May. The organization is rapidly coming to the front and is established on a firm footing in New England. In the south, middle west and far west the organization is strong, so I am told, and that it is looked upon as a thriving, hustling outfit always looking for the betterment of things in general and seeking to take the disabled veteran is not lost track of in the shuffle.

The winter carnival craze seems to have a firm grip on New England. I am informed that no less than 10 cities and towns in New England have made plans for winter carnivals this year. Snow and ice are not a healthy form of exercise. They keep people out in the fresh air and entice many into the open who might otherwise sit by the fire. New England is already the vacation ground for people in summer and I look for it to be the playground of the east during the winter. In connection with these carnivals it appears that they all originated from one started at Dartmouth college in about 1910. If I remember correctly, a young man named Fred Harris, who lived in Brattleboro, and a student of the college, started the Dartmouth Outing club. This organization, starting on a small scale, held a carnival once a year during the winter months. The carnivals each year grew better until now the Dartmouth winter carnival is looked upon as the biggest thing of its kind in the east. Other ideal winter cities and towns caught the idea with the result that the carnival has become firmly established in New England.

I chanced across an article recently that contains some very interesting facts about the makeup of our state legislature. Here are a few which will prove interesting to many. Lawyers lead professions in numbers in our next legislature, 45 representatives declaring themselves such. Real estate men are second in line, a total of 16 having placed the word to Boston assembly. The oldest member-elect is Dr. Ezra W. Clark of Brockton, 50 years of age, with a record of 35 years in the house and five years in the senate. A rather odd fact is, that one of the group of four who are the oldest members is Dr. Clark's colleague from the same district, Miss M. Sylvia Donaldson, who is 73. The two others are Roland M. Keith of Bridgewater, 75, and Almond Smith of Athol, 77. Going to the other extreme is Representative Joseph E. Kelly of Holyoke, who is only 22 years of age. He is the youngest member.

Try This—Reduce

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. Get them from your own druggist or write direct to Marolia Co., 4512 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. Berton Braley's Daily Poem

NOT FOR ME

He didn't like his father and he didn't like his mother. He couldn't stand his sister and he loathed his elder brother. He thought his playmates vulgar and his neighbors stupid fools. Who lived by silly standards and by Puritanic rules. He felt the whole community was out to chain and bind him. And as soon as he was old enough he left it all behind him.

He left that simple village life which he had soundly hated, And thought that in the city he would be appreciated. So in the great metropolis he started this career, But presently he found himself continually sneering. At all the "narrow-minded folks" among whom he meandered; There wasn't anyone he met who seemed to fit his standard.

He talked about a something which he called "The Greater Freedom," But people seemed too occupied to follow where he'd lead 'em. He called the crowd "intolerant"—he spoke with some asperity— And yet he wouldn't tolerate or view with any charity. The worries of the multitude, whatever they might be; "Alas," he cried, "this narrow world is out of step with me!"

A most unpleasant person with an ego, overbearing, For whom no normal mortal could conceivably be caring, And yet you are expected to be highly sympathetic. With all of his reactions and his grouches energetic. Well, I for one, asseverate that I refuse to grovel. Before this peevish "Hero" of the "Realistic Novel!" (Copyright, 1922, The Lowell Sun.)

Arthur T. Safford, agent of the Locks and Canals Co. of this city, was the principal speaker at the December meeting of the Laymen's league of the Unitarian society of Chelmsford last evening. Mr. Safford spoke on "The Water Power of New England," and he illustrated his talk with a series of slides. In the course of his remarks, the speaker demonstrated the growth of the

THE SCHOOLS

I deplore the usual "Wildcat" rumors about the school department. It is about time for sensible people to stop talking so irrationally about the schools. Let me say, once and for all, that nobody connected with the schools has anything to fear with Donovan as Mayor while he or she performs his or her work faithfully.

The schools are as near and as dear to me as they are to any individual in Lowell. My children have been educated and taught in them, and I will see to it that other parents have equally as good advantages for their children, and better if possible.

I will show the same American spirit in the conduct of schools as I did in the service of my country. That kind of Americanism should be good enough for anybody.

I will see to it that my official conduct in office squares with my words and statements before election day. I will not take all the credit for everything that goes right, and condemn somebody else for everything that goes wrong.

as he removes the clutch. Thus the engine is permitted to run idle at a low speed, while the car is free from the engine. When the motorist reaches for the foot brake, should he miss it and strike the accelerator, he has done no damage.

THINGS GO ON EASILY

Any motorist hereafter will be able to put new rings on the pistons of his engine without trouble. A device shown above, invented by Albert F. Reed of Wapello, Ia., makes this possible. The rings are placed on the piston, which then is set over the piston and the rings are slipped down into place.

DODGE BROTHERS SEDAN

Many women who could well afford more expensive closed cars prefer the sedan for their personal use.

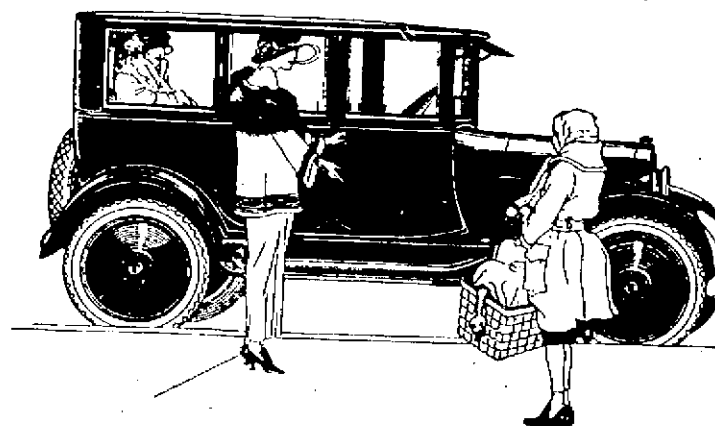

They find it easy to drive, easy to park, economical to run, and comparable in the beauty and richness of its appointments with cars much higher in price.

The upholstery is done in genuine mohair velvet of a singularly rich and beautiful pattern. The seats are roomy and luxurious. The hardware and minor fittings reflect thoughtfulness and rare good taste.

Steel disc wheels (with cord tires) screen the under part of the car and harmonize in a most effective way with the new grace and smartness which Dodge Brothers have recently brought to the lines of the body.

LEARN TO USE

THE CLUTCH

"Keep your engine pulling," is an instruction that has proved fatal to many an autoist.

Many are now of the opinion that it is far safer to let the engine run idle when braking than to try to "keep it pulling."

New drivers have been taught to keep the engine pulling when rounding a corner or desiring to change to a slower speed, by shutting down the gas and applying the foot brake. Thus the car is slowed to the same speed as the engine.

Frequently, one reads of auto accidents: "It is thought the driver attempted to apply the brake and struck the accelerator. Instead, then the crash came."

This recalls a striking case. A man, considered a good driver, was attempting to turn his large touring car into a garage. Another car was coming behind him. He looked around as he put his foot out for the accelerator and his car leaped through the garage doors.

The auto struck a supporting post, knocking it out. The second floor was let down on him with many autos. He was caught in the debris and, in the ensuing fire, was burned to a crisp while thousands of dollars in damage resulted.

This man was a believer in the theory of keeping the engine pulling. But it has been found that it is just as easy to drive a car with the accelerator as with the hand throttle. Then if a driver schools himself into the use of the clutch, such an accident as the above is not apt to follow.

When an autoist drives with the accelerator, he must release it as soon

Don't confuse your engine with your motor.

The Society of Automotive Engineers has set these in their proper places.

The engine is the standard name for the internal combustion plant that

14 MASS. CITIES REVIEW RESULTS OF YESTERDAY'S ELECTION

Buckley and Watson Re-elected in Boston—Two Women Elected to North Adams School Board—Mayor Sullivan Re-elected in Worcester—Mayor Golden of Woburn Defeated—Jitney Advocates Win in Malden

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—Fourteen Massachusetts cities today reviewed the results of their municipal elections yesterday. Ten of these had elected or re-elected mayors.

In Boston, Councilmen James A. Watson and David J. Buckley, looked upon as supporters of Mayor Curley, were re-elected by substantial majorities. The third councilman elected was William C. S. Buckley, endorsed by the Good Government association. It was estimated that less than 30 per cent of the registered vote was cast.

Two women elected to the school committee at North Adams, the lone female candidate going down to defeat. Rev. W. A. Lawrence, son of Bishop Lawrence of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, received a larger vote than any other candidate at Lynn, where he was elected a member of the school committee.

John A. Flanagan defeated Michael F. Scannell in Lawrence for alderman and director of public works, reversing the result of the election two years ago.

C. Sinclair Weeks, son of Secretary of War Weeks, elected alderman-at-large in Newton.

Jitney advocates won a victory at the Malden election when two aldermen and director of public works, Mayor Benjamin F. Haynes, chief executive of Malden, defeated by Representative Richard B. Coolidge.

Mayor Edward Golden of Woburn was defeated by Stephen S. Bean, republican.

Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley of Chelsea re-elected over former Mayor Edward E. Willard by more than 2000 plurality.

The following mayors were elected:

Dr. Frederick L. Hogan was re-elected to the school committee, and William G. Gillette won the other place on that body.

The vote on the school board contest was as follows:

Dr. Frederick L. Hogan.....42,163

HAIR RAISING RESCUE

Auto Trapped on Crossing—Driver Swings Car Up Tracks and Races to Safety

ROSTON, Dec. 13.—Somerville shoppers returning to their homes yesterday afternoon were treated to a hair-raising rescue as a car was trapped on a crossing when Walter S. Porter, 23, of 9 Woodland ave., Beverly, saved his own life and those of a young woman and young man who were passengers in his automobile, when the machine was caught between the crossing gates at College ave. directly in the path of an express train.

Porter swung his car up the track in front of the locomotive, stepped on the accelerator, and shot over the side of the train at 50 miles an hour to the next grade crossing, 150 feet away at Tolland street, where he swung the car out from the track. The stop of the locomotive grazed the side of the automobile and each was slightly damaged, but no one was hurt, even slightly.

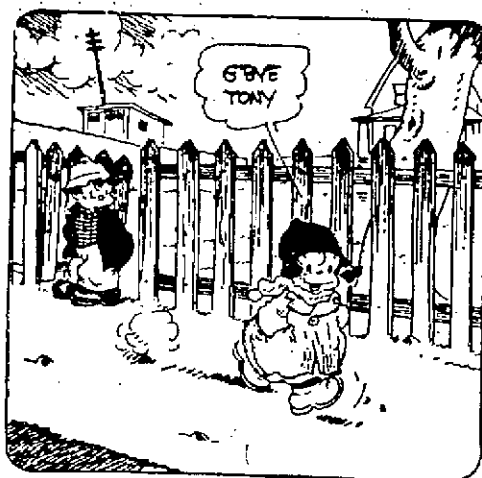

Porter drove away with his companions before the police arrived to take their names. When reached at the Alpha Tau Omega house, Trifits college, last night, he said he would rather not make the name of his passengers public.

The absence of a mayoralty contest, combined with rainy weather, kept the number of the voters from the polls. Watson, whose three terms in the council have been marked by attacks on various-text books, including the dictionary, for alleged pro-British tendencies, and charges of extortionate rates charged by gas and electric companies, had 25,367 votes. Brickley, who has been called as a witness in the recent investigation by the municipal finance commission, on charges involving council members in connection with real estate purchases by the city, took 23,267 votes. Healy received 13,336.

Francis D. Harrigan, lawyer, and Miss Florence H. Luscomb, an architect, the other two candidates endorsed by the Good Government association, will now have four members in the council as against five supporters of Mayor Curley.

hearing for it nearly a year. The manager was Ernest S. Russell of Hadley.

Considerable expense and a great deal of planning and work have been put into the pageant, and the result last night was declared to be an overwhelming success. There were no speaking parts, the entire story being told by pantomime, explanatory scrolls and interpretive dancing. In which a group of the younger members of the State Grange took part. There were no solo dances, all the steps being in illustration of some phase of the grange's work, including one elaborate "dance of the seasons."

The climax of the pageant occurred in a review of the accomplishments of the grange during its history. One group representing the educational work, another the legislative activity, with representatives of the local and Pomona or county granges and Ernest H. Gilbert, master of the State Grange, massing on the stage, with Mrs. Eva S. McDowell of Wellesley representing the National Grange. Mrs. McDowell's husband was one of the seven founders of the Massachusetts State Grange, and she herself for 25 years was treasurer of the National Grange.

The pageant was followed by a reception at Tremont Temple, with music and refreshments, given to the delegates to this meeting by the granges of Greater Boston. Gov. Cox was invited but because of a hurry call which took him out of town was not present.

Several thousand grangers from all over the state are in Boston for this meeting, which began yesterday and will end tomorrow. Ernest H. Gilbert, master of the State Grange, is presiding at the meetings, and delivered his annual address yesterday afternoon, in which he reviewed the activities of his organization and made recommendations for its activities for the coming year. Mayor Curley addressed the organization yesterday morning, welcoming it to Boston and discussing the agricultural situation.

Reports of the state treasurer and secretary, presented yesterday afternoon, showed that the organization now has more than 46,000 members in this state alone, and a treasury of approximately $55,000 by far the largest in its history.

Today's Session

This morning's session was spent in routine business with the introduction of resolutions, and this afternoon Congressman Allan T. Trowbridge of Stockbridge addressed the organization, in the place of Gov. Cox, who has been called away unexpectedly. The sixth degree, the highest obtainable from the state organization, was conferred this afternoon on a class of approximately 500.

This evening an address will be delivered to the grange by its national master, Sherman J. Lowell, of Fredonia, N. Y., who last night spoke before the similar annual meeting of the New Hampshire State Grange, held at Portsmouth.

INVITE RAILROADS OF COUNTRY TO CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. (By the Associated Press.)—Representatives of eight middle western states, comprising the council of the states of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Waterways Association and including official state waterways commissions, yesterday adopted resolutions inviting the railroads of the country to a conference for the purpose of defining the relations of the railroads to the lakes-to-ocean project as an essential element in the creation of a national transportation system.

A special invitation was sent to representatives of New England commerce and industry to meet with the waterways association. The interest of New England and the Great Lakes states largely coincide, and at no place can conflict the invitation to the New England representatives said. The proposed canal, the statement declared, would bring New England industry nearer to its sources of food and raw material, and give New England cheap and abundant power.

The council also approved resolutions urging congress and President Harding to hasten the necessary legislation for the lake to sea route. "Because commerce is starved by the transportation shortage," declared for government ownership of the power plants included in the proposed project and decided the question of government or private operation did not concern it.

The invitation to the railroads recited that the roads were now engaged in widespread propaganda, appealing to the public for fair and liberal treatment in order that "with revenues properly nourished, they may adequately render the service due from them."

While a good understanding between roads and the public is in the general interest, the resolution continued, "it is also desirable that railway management recognizing public interest as paramount, should on its part come to a good understanding of the relationship of railways to the transportation system of the United States."

MAYOR HOLDS OUTDOOR RALLIES Mayor George H. Brown, in the interests of his candidacy for re-election, inaugurated his outdoor speaking program last night, conducting several street corner rallies in Centralville, Bridge and 13th streets, Bridge and 14th, Twelfth and June, Sixth and Beech, Third and Beech, and Pumping Station, Bridge and Second and Lakeview avenue and Coburn streets.

STATE GRANGE HISTORY TOLD IN PAGEANT

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—An elaborate pageant, picturing the history of the Massachusetts State Grange during its 60 years' history, was presented last night on the stage of Tremont Temple, as the climax of the anniversary meeting held by that organization yesterday. The pageant was written by Mrs. Raymond Warner of Williamstown, and was given under the direction of William Purinton of Haverhill by 85 members of the Pomona Grange in Hampshire county, who have been re-

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once

Common garden sage, brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years younger. —Adv.

32 CHINESE SEAMEN WHO POLLING BOOTH CHANGE ESCAPED ROUNDUP IS DISCUSSED

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 12.—The strategy of a truck driver at East Providence, yesterday probably saved the police of that town and of Providence the trouble of running down 32 Chinese seamen who at noon escaped from their quarters aboard the Standard Oil Co. tanker Oceana and came ashore. Harold E. Dolgan, driver of the truck, knowing the importance of getting the seamen back on the boat again, invited them to ride with him in his truck. They accepted and Dolgan drove to East Providence police headquarters. There some of the constables who could speak English said that they had quit the boat because it was unheated and that they had no intentions of violating the immigration law.

FRATERNAL NEWS

Chief Ranger Charles A. Gallagher occupied the chair at last evening's meeting of Court Merrimack, 11, F. of A. Two applications for membership were received and routine business was transacted. It was announced that the nomination and election of officers will take place at the next meeting. Interesting remarks were made by Chief Ranger John F. Kennedy, Thomas C. Mooney, Martin Harman and Thomas F. Kelley. At the close of the business session a social hour was enjoyed.

Pawtucket Auxiliary The election of officers for Pawtucket auxiliary, 11, which was held at a recent meeting of the organization, resulted as follows: Lizzie B. Down, lady president; Florence M. Weinbeck, lady vice president; Irene A. Kittredge, lady secretary and Lillian Flint, lady treasurer.

BIBLE CLASS MEETING

A get-together social and dinner was held last night in the First Presbyterian church by members of the Craig Bible class. Entertainment was provided by Frank Marshall, Ruel Loclair and James Keeney. After the dinner the party adjourned to the Crescent alley where a miniature bowling tournament was staged.

At the meeting called last night by the election commission for the purpose of discussing a change in location for the polling booth of precinct three, ward seven, little interest was manifested. Including the commission, hall attendants and newspapermen there were only 15 people in the council chamber. After a hearing that lasted for an hour or more the commission announced that it would take the matter under advisement.

William Finnick, speaking for 70 petitioners, asked the commission to remove the booth from its present location to the Pawtucketville school, which, in his opinion, is much more desirable to the voters, especially to the women, owing to the fact that the lighting and sanitary conditions are much better.

William Rigby and David B. Kinghorn also advanced reasons why the change should be made. The latter placed a great deal of stress on the housewives' problems in voting. He also presented a map which showed the different sections taken in by the booth and which showed the number of voters on each street.

J. B. Boudreau and A. Brassard spoke in behalf of the remonstrants. They pointed out that the present location of the booth was all right because it gave the people who worked a chance to vote. They averred that a great majority of them stopped on the way down street and that if the booth was changed it would cause a loss of time as many would have to take round-about courses to reach the proposed place.

After Mr. Brassard spoke the men gathered around a table and went over the map thoroughly. The situation was discussed from many angles.

O. M. I. CADETS HOLD ANNUAL DANCE

Associate hall was the scene last night of the annual dance of the O. M. I. 230 o'clock.

Cadet football squad, and several hundred young people were present to partake of the evening's festivities. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion with blue and white streamers, the Cadet colors, with attractive O. M. I. Cadet banners and emblems sprinkled about the balconies. Music was furnished by Miller-Doyle's orchestra and general dancing was enjoyed until midnight. The football team of the Cadets which enjoyed one of its most successful seasons, acted as a reception committee during the evening and also aided in the distribution of refreshments during intermission. The officers in charge of the dance were: General manager, Eugene Payton; floor director, Thomas Walsh; assistant floor director, Al Cheney; chief aid, Thomas Egan.

CHRISTMAS CONCERT AT AUDITORIUM

A band of between 50 and 100 Lowell musicians will give the Christmas concert at the Memorial Auditorium on Sunday, Dec. 24. They have volunteered their services with a desire to make the municipal observance as fine and impressive as possible. It is probable that the concert will be held between 8 and 10 o'clock, to be preceded and followed by carol singing. Although the municipal Christmas tree will be erected in front of the building, all of the exercises and singing will be inside, where it will be much more comfortable.

AMERICAN-IRISH HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Next Sunday afternoon in Memorial hall, the American Irish Historical society will hold its first general meeting of the season which will be held in January and applications for membership are now open.

A feature of Sunday's meeting will be the reading of a paper by Miss Frances Masterson, who will dwell upon the accomplishments of the early Irish in Lowell up to the year 1792. The meeting will be called to order at 2.30 o'clock.

Sonora

The Queen Anne A Life Time Possession

WHEN you buy the Queen Anne you are not buying a phonograph that will be out-of-date in a few years. The Queen Anne Sonora represents the utmost in present-day production of phonograph tone quality. It is far in advance of other makes in this respect.

Many believe the Queen Anne to be unsurpassed in tone by even the more expensive Sonora models—the extra cost of which is based largely on exclusive designs, extra long running motors, convenient attachments and refinements.

The Queen Anne is to phonographs what the Grand piano is to the upright—the touring car to the runabout—the hall chime clock to the mantel clock. There are many other Sonoras to suit the more modest or the more luxurious taste.
